49 Washington Street Newark, NJ 07102	973-596-6550	38	31

Description:

The Newark Museum, in Newark, Essex County, New Jersey, is the state's largest museum. With over 80 galleries, it holds fine collections of American art, decorative arts, contemporary art, and arts of Asia, Africa, the Americas, and the ancient world. Its extensive collections of American art include works by Hiram Powers, Thomas Cole, John Singer Sargent, Albert Bierstadt, Frederick Church, Childe Hassam, Mary Cassatt, Edward Hopper, Georgia O'Keeffe, Joseph Stella, Tony Smith and Frank Stella.

Connected to the museum is the Ballantine house, a preserved and restored house from the Victorian Era, designed by architect George Edward Harney. It was home to John Holme Ballantine and his family. Mr. Ballantine owned and ran a brewery in the Ironbound section of Newark. The house originally had twenty-seven rooms and three floors. In 1937, the Newark Museum bought the house and has since restored it to serve as galleries for the extensive decorative arts collections.
